It is not really good, you are attending lectures not only to get good score in marks, it is even worse you attend lectures for attendance so you can sit for exams.

Not industry driven

The problem is that they are not industry driven, the system is old and is not related to need of the industry. Universities are driven by the old stressed syllabus for students which lacks competence for the latest industrial trends.

Prepare yourself

So you can not be dependent on your college to prepare you for industry, you have go out, do internships, understand the industrial trends and its requirement and prepare yourself accordingly.

As per NASSCOM nearly 75% percent of engineering grads are unemployable in India, so you should make sure you fall in the other 25%.
